Min is a legal project assistant who participates in all phases of litigation, and is also actively involved in office administration. She has numerous years of litigation experience and a diverse litigation background which includes of breach of contract matters, consumer law, unfair competition, labor and employment issues, and class actions.

Min began her legal career at a small civil litigation firm focused on consumer law and plaintiff's class action work. As the sole support staff member, Min was responsible for managing cases at both the state and federal levels, from investigation to trial. She has since worked at multiple mid-sized firms, in the areas of litigation and corporate law.

In addition to her responsibilities as office administrator, Min prepares pleadings and court filings, assists in conducting legal research, provides ongoing file management, and manages many aspects of civil discovery.
